Solution

Unfortunately urban space often does not give us the necessary amount of greens, natural materials and comfort that a person needs in order not to feel lonely among artificial landscape of large cities. But we can brighten up this deficiency in our house by arranging a terrace in such a way so that it reflects the human desire for unity with nature.

The concept is very simple:

- we used natural materials (wood, linen sun blinds);
- a lot of plants ♦ wheat on the outside perimeter or any other high simple grass, decorative trees ♦ read more in flowerpots and also greens around art-chairs;
- chairs designed specially for this project;
- mirror coffee-table
- and as a main core ♦ we used different types of lightning for creating different moods
