IARA - System for collecting, purifying and transporting water.

Solution

Nearly 2 billion people live in water-stressed areas of the world and 3 billion have no running water within a kilometre of their homes.

This project was developed to help people who have to struggle every day to get some clean water. Simple, hygienic, lightweight and rugged, aluminum has physical and chemical properties that allow to cool and warm quickly being the ideal material for use in this project.

IARA should be produced in a large scale and be distributed for free all over the world by charity organisations.
