We are on the edge... stepping in a world of augmented reality in wich the boundary between reality

Solution

We are on the edge... stepping in a world of augmented reality in wich the boundary between reality and fiction it`s thin, our human beeing it will be put to the test... we will definitely mistaken but we will also know how to reestablish ourselves[...]it`s about a balance between nature and the tech human life, and this it will for sure be reflected in all existing and future fields. We love distinction, technology and we worship the genuine.

Our concept for the accomodation guest room places us in this area of an world in wich photogeny it`s overcome and wich matches technology with natural elements. Otherwise, how it will be possible for us to feel at ease once we loose connection with something that defines us as a human being.

A wavering area - all in one:
