Taormina is a conditioning system designed to refresh and set up suggestive outdoor atmospheres

Solution

Taormina refreshes the air through a liquid nitrogen system. The nitrogen, contained in a tank located in the product's base, comes out in form of steam. Two fans channel the gas within the column until the top from where the steam coming out like a fresh cloud. Also the upper part is designed to guide the gas in a wide radius of outflow.

In the middle part of the product body is allocate a source of light that illuminate the entire object. The final suggestion is so increased from the interaction of steam and light.
